The Somewhere Project: A Public Forum

A thought-provoking two-part forum on January 24 examines some of the social issues raised by West Side Story and the arts' role in social change. Artists and scholars share their insights in lively discussions and performances.

Sunday, January 24 at 1 PM Resnick Education Wing at Carnegie Hall

Part I: The Issues Then and Now

Thomas Cabaniss, Moderator | Amanda Dehnert, Panelist

Marin Alsop, Panelist | Carol Oja, Panelist | Arlene Davila, Panelist

Explore the powerful social issues raised by West Side Story and the role of the arts in social change. In the first event of this two-part forum, the Weill Music Institute's Thomas Cabaniss moderates a panel discussion that explores the social issues in 1950s New York and the ways in which West Side Story illuminates them. A brief performance from West Side Story provides the audience with an opportunity to directly engage with the iconic work.

Part II: Social Transformation Through the Arts

Thomas Cabaniss, Moderator | Amanda Dehnert, Panelist Marin Alsop, Panelist | Jamie Bennett, Panelist | Yazmany Arboleda, Panelist

Thomas Cabaniss concludes this two-part forum, leading a conversation about social issues and how they can be addressed through the arts. Songs created by New York City community members in The Somewhere Project workshops will be featured, and participants will be asked to think about how they can contribute to making New York City a better "place for us."

Tickets: $10 each carnegiehall.org | 212-247-7800
